CHICAGO, October 15 .- The will of the late Nelson Morris was filed for probate yesterday. The petition accompanying the will estimates the estate at not to exceed $20,000,000. Of this amount more than $18,000,000 is in personal property and the balance in real estate. The bulk of the estate is let in trust to the executors for the various members of his family. The sum of $500,000 is to be paid immediately to Mrs. Morris, and she will participate also in the income from the estate at large. Mr. Morris left $65,000 to various charitable institutions, including the state of the poisoning story.

PRIVATE OFFICES FOR LADIES.

MARSEILLE, October 15.—An extraor-dinary romance of love and life insurance was told in court at Marseille recently, when Mme. Hispanat, a money lender named Carcassone and an insurance agent named Philippe were charged with attempting to defraud a dozen insurance companies of sums totaling $360,000 by taking out policies on the life of Theophile Mille, who was in the last of Theophile Mille, who was in the last Mille, a jovial butcher, died a year ago and on his deathbed wrote a letter which set the law in motion. He seems to have fascinated almost every woman he met. He was the lover of Mme. Hispanat, the mother of a pretty girl of sixteen, named Emily, and yet was the bosom friend of M. Hispanat, in whose house he, as a widower, went to live. The lady was so infatuated that she lent him $25,000 and induced her husband to lend more. Mille squandered all. As there had been several scenes in his shop caused by frate husbands, Mme. Hispanat and Emily installed themselves at the cash desk to secure decorum.

stalled themselves at the cash desk to secure decorum.

The daughter next fell in love with the butcher. It is stated that she made overtures to him by sending him a branch of mimosa, which means, in the language of flowers, "I am yours." She became violently jealous of her mother, who, however, did not discover the fact until after Mille's death. When her husband was pressing for repayment of his loan Mme. Hispanat introduced the butcher to Carcassone, who agreed to advance money on a life policy. Mille agreed, and, though he had already been pronounced a consumptive by three docpronounced a consumptive by three doc-tors, he actually passed the medical ex-amination of eleven life insurance com-Twenty-two doctors declared him a "first-class life," and the policies were issued in favor of Carcassone and Mme. darling," she added, "don't you drink any potion which my mother may prepare for you." So infatuated was Emily that when advised not to drink out of the same cup as Mille she wrote to a friend: "What does it matter? I love him so that I would drink out of the same cup with pleasure, even knowing that in it lingered the germs of death."

Probably the butcher believed some of the stories told him, for a day or two before his death he wrote a long letter CHICAGO, October 15.—The will of the late Nelson Morris was filed for probate of his relations with mother and daugh-
